IMPRISONMENT

The defendant is committed to the custody of the United States Bureau of Prisons to be imprisoned for a total term of 51 months.

The Court recommends that Immigration and Customs Enforcement begin removal proceedings during service of sentence.

Victor Delgadillo-Gallegos` offense level is 21 and his criminal history is category V. His advisory guidelines sentence range is 70 to 87 months. The Court has departed downward to a criminal history category of IV, producing an advisory guidelines range of 57 to 71 months. The Court has considered the guideline range established for the applicable category of offense committed by the applicable category of defendant. The Court also takes into consideration other sentencing goals. Specifically, the Court has also considered the factors set forth in 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a)(1)-(7).

The Court believes that a sentence of 51 months reflects the seriousness of the offense that Delgadillo-Gallegos has committed and will promote respect for the law, provide just punishment, and afford adequate deterrence. While the sentence varies from the suggested range under the Sentencing Guidelines, it is a more reasonable sentence and more faithfully promotes the sentencing goals Congress laid down in 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a). Delgadillo-Gallegos was convicted of sexual battery in California and has received a 16-level enhancement to his sentence because of that conviction. Congress has expressed great concern about sexual offenses, but the Court is also concerned about the level of violence involved in this conviction in California, which involved Delgadillo-Gallegos apparently touching his wife sexually without her consent. The offense is serious, but the Court believes that a 16-level enhancement for that offense is excessive. Balancing the § 3553(a) factors, Delgadillo-Gallegos is more in line with defendants with an offense level of 20. The Court believes that sentencing Delgadillo-Gallegos consistent with such defendants would afford adequate deterrence and protect the public as much as a sentence of 57 months or more would and more faithfully promotes the sentencing goals in 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a).

A sentence within the guidelines range would be excessive here and would contravene Congress` command that courts impose sentences that are sufficient but not greater than is necessary to comply with the purposes of punishment set forth in the Sentencing Reform Act. The Court recognizes the seriousness of the offense Delgadillo-Gallegos committed, but believes that a sentence of 51 months sufficiently takes that into account. A longer sentence would be unnecessarily punitive and would not serve any useful purpose. The sentence the Court imposes varies from the guidelines, but in these circumstances, such a sentence more effectively promotes the goals outlined in 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a).
